ABSTRACT

The Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations (FAO) through its Country Office in Yemen, with technical support from Data in Emergencies (DIEM) Hub, conducted the tenth round of its high-frequency monitoring (HFM) survey, marking the eighteenth survey overall, to track rapidly evolving indicators related to shocks and food security. Data collection was carried out from 15 May to 23 May 2024, reaching 2 500 households across all 22 governorates of Yemen through computer-assisted telephone interviews (CATI). The HFM survey is a rapid assessment of the food security situation in Yemen aimed at informing early warning systems and decision-makers.

Sampling

SAMPLING PROCEDURE

Data collection took place from 15 May to 23 May 2024 with 2 500 households in all 22 governorates of Yemen via computer-assisted telephone interviews (CATI). Initially, the sample was designed to include 110 households in each of the 22 governorates, amounting to 2 420 households nationally. The sample is representative of the population of Yemen and the governorates (administrative level 1), with a 95 percent confidence level and a 10 percent margin of error. Eventually, 2 500 households were interviewed.

WEIGHTING

Data were weighted at the analytical stage to ensure a proportionate representation of the population. Weights were computed based on population size and wealth proxies (access to drinkable water and education of the heads of household).
