Sampling

Sampling Procedure

---

In the first stage, researchers limited the geographical coverage of the experiment to rural areas with a higher share of indigenous population, selecting Chapas, Guerrero, Puebla and Yucatan states.

From the universe of AGEs schools in the four states, boarding schools, schools not participating in the ENLACE test, and schools participating in other SBM programs were excluded. This left 5,930 potential schools for the experiment. From these 5,930 schools, 250 were randomly selected. Randomization led to a distribution of indigenous and general schools close to the actual distribution. These 250 schools have to be in the AGEs program for at least three years of the duration of the experiment, otherwise it would not be possible to carry out the experiment to isolate the effect of higher funds for half of them. From these 250 schools, 125 were randomly assigned to the treatment group and 125 - to the control group. Then researchers checked that schools in treatment and control groups are as similar as possible, performing t-tests for the means of a series of characteristics.
