Sampling

Sampling Procedure

In May-August 2013, 287 stakeholders of the World Bank in Malaysia were invited to provide their opinions on the Bank's assistance to the country by participating in a country survey. Participants in the survey were drawn from the office of the President; the office of the Prime Minister; office of a minister; office of a parliamentarian; ministries, ministerial departments, or implementation agencies; local government officials or staff; bilateral and multilateral agencies; private sector organizations; the financial sector/private banks; NGOs; the media; independent government institutions; trade unions; academia/research institutes/think tanks; the judiciary branch; and other organizations.

Response Rate

A total of 74 stakeholders participated in the survey (26% response rate).

Questionnaires

Overview

The Questionnaire consists of 7 Sections:

A. General Issues Facing Malaysia:

Respondents were asked to indicate whether Malaysia is headed in the right direction, and what they thought were the top three most important economic and social development priorities in the country.

B. Overall Attitudes toward the World Bank:

Respondents were asked to rate their familiarity with the World Bank, the Bank's effectiveness in Malaysia, Bank staff preparedness to help Malaysia solve its development challenges, their agreement with various statements regarding the Bank's work, and the extent to which the Bank is an effective development partner. Respondents were asked to indicate the Bank's greatest values and weaknesses, with which stakeholder groups the Bank should collaborate more, and to what reasons respondents attributed failed or slow reform efforts.

C. World Bank Effectiveness and Results:

Respondents were asked to rate the extent to which the Bank's work helps achieve economic and social development results, the extent to which the Bank meets Malaysia's needs for knowledge services, and the Bank's level of effectiveness across sixteen development areas, such as public sector governance/reform, job creation/employment, private sector development, education, and economic growth.

D. The World Bank's Knowledge:

Respondents were asked to indicate how frequently they consult Bank knowledge work and activities, to rate the effectiveness and quality of the Bank's knowledge work and activities, including how significant of a contribution it makes to development results and its technical quality.

E. The Future Role of the World Bank in Malaysia:

Respondents were asked to rate how significant a role the Bank should play in Malaysia in the near future and to indicate what the Bank should do to make itself of greater value.

F. Communication and Information Sharing:

Respondents were asked to indicate how they get information about economic and social development issues, how they prefer to receive information from the Bank, and their usage and evaluation of the Bank's websites and e-services. Respondents were asked about their level of agreement that they know how to find information from the Bank, that the Bank's websites are easy to navigate and useful, and that the Bank is responsive to information requests.

G. Background Information:

Respondents were asked to indicate their current position, specialization, whether they professionally collaborate with the World Bank, and their exposure to the Bank in Malaysia.
