Sampling

SAMPLING PROCEDURE

Non-probability sampling. The Malaysia Lipid Study (MLS) is a cross-sectional study investigating dietary practices and metabolic outcomes in an urban, mixed-racial population of healthy free-living adults. Malays, Chinese and Indians are among the main ethnic groups in Malaysia, and together form approximately 85% of the total population. Participant screening and subject recruitment were conducted in the urban centers of Kuala Lumpur and Petaling Jaya and surrounding suburban housing estates. Screening was facilitated through religious, community, parent-teacher associations and employer organizations at 38 community sites, between November 2012 and November 2013.

WEIGHTING

No surveys weight were used in this survey.

DATA COLLECTION NOTES

Individual quantitative 24-hour recall was used. For 566 subjects, 3 recalls were collected (2 weekdays and 1 weekend), with an average of 2 days in between the subsequent recalls. Recalls with implausible values were excluded. A household consumption questionnaire was also applied to capture eating out trends, use of cooking oils for study population and income. IPAQ was used for physical activity level.
